We might never go if noone else is watching us we might never act if everything is left up to trust
we might never try if noone else is judging us

(we'll just) wait for tomorrow to break
Sometimes someones tell you they know what is best for you and,
somehow everything they say is wasted, wasted on you something everybody thinks of when they're tired, lonely

(they'll just) wait for tomorrow to break living long enough to know you never learned your lesson/

everyday stressing / forever second guessing / thinking that the time passed by with no reply/another day another grown old/always on your own but never been alone/life got ya locked in a choke hold/oh no the ova flow sold yo an old folk poem/ask Bo he don't know / so ya keep a low pro until tomorrow / and ya live life like ya got the answer / moving faster / as the day flies by / and the sun don't shine/
now ya drinking fine wine/ just to keep your mind blind
/
and ya third eye got ya tell a lie / my my mm ya a hell of a guy ya that's right / ya wana fly like a bird but your wings didn't buy / making everyday first for the rest of your life / now you look to the sky, but you can't see the light / you gotta let go to let the love in your life, on your own, let's get alone /

There are many many ways to try and fight it baby there are many ways to it up and still be ok there are many things I hoped to tell you, not today

(I'll just) wait for tomorrow to break
wait for tomorrow to break
