Watching you walk away tracing your steps
I pick up the pieces that things left and said fighting to catch you but losing my breath I'm not ready to let go, just yet I reverse this moment so many times in my head now I stand here frozen, trying to speak but I cant what should I say?

don't know where to go there's so much that I wish I told you before It's my only chance, so why take a stand I don't wanna lose the best thing that I had don't need a moment of silence don't want a moment of silence
and there's so much to say there's so much to say
