"Shoes"

Everything you told me I believed, you said that I was all that you'd ever need

That I made life worth living for you, and no one else would ever fill my shoes

But them shoes don't fit me anymore, they lost their shape when I lost all that I cared for

And someone else will fill the shoes that I once wore,
'cause them shoes don't fit me anymore

When a shoe is new, it fits awful tight, when our love was new, everything was right

When a shoe is old, you throw it away, our love is like the shoes that you wore yesterday

But them shoes don't fit me anymore, they lost their shape when I lost all that I cared for

And someone else will fill the shoes that I once wore,
'cause them shoes don't fit me anymore
