Life each day never changes much in any way

Like machines, we have to carry on

I know it's wrong, somehow

Then you walk on by (walk on by)

And suddenly I'm ten feet high (ten feet high)

Then I'll be once more, a man without a heart

Love, it's clear, only helps to bring you misery

When the one you left just passes by

You want to cry somehow

But you know inside (know inside)

To follow her would hurt your pride (hurt your pride)

So you just remain a man without a heart

But you know inside (know inside)

To follow her would hurt your pride (hurt your pride)

So you just remain a man without a heart.
