I was washing antique cars
Working part time for my dad after school
When I got the go ahead to pick a car
And spin around the neighborhood

It was a baby blue '52 Roadstar
(It was a beautiful car)

That was the night I heard of the fighting
And the murder of the schoolmaster's son (Last year I asked him who he was afraid of and he answered everyone)

But did I even flinch a wrist?
(Should I have tried to undo what had been done?)
Now that's just the way its gotta be
I should never have to worry myself none

It was a baby blue '52 Roadstar
(It was a beautiful car)
