A THOUSAND MILES FROM TODAY

Iâ€™ve got to go, where I donâ€™t know, thereâ€™s too much to do, and I ain't done a thing, Iâ€™m feeling brilliant blue, and I can't wait for spring, Iâ€™m losing my mind, and when you do itâ€™s so hard to find, nobody can see inside, itâ€™s hard enough for me, to face the things I try to hide, after you pay the price, you're still not free.

And I hope Iâ€™m right about being wrong, I hope I never have to sing this song, maybe Iâ€™ll figure out where I went astray, when Iâ€™m ten miles from today.

Look forward to tomorrow, to accumulate more sorrow, but itâ€™s the only hope youâ€™ve got, pray for the flesh and live for the ghost, what is is not, thereâ€™s always more itâ€™s never most, I feel so tired, so vaguely inspired, it doesn't matter which choice you make, but a choice must be made, it doesn't matter which feelings you fake, but a passion must be played.

And I pray I don't ever give up hope, but for now I just try to cope, maybe

Iâ€™ll figure out where I went astray, when Iâ€™m a hundred miles from today.

They say now or never, theyâ€™ll talk that way forever, itâ€™s not from lack of trying, I just don't try hard enough, Iâ€™m sailing when I could be flying,

these clouds are soft and this road so rough, gotta keep your faith, tough you may be losing face, and it can drive you crazy, or it may keep you sane, it can make you lazy, but it won't ever stop the rain.

And I cling to these threads of belief, tough theyâ€™ve not sown any relief, maybe Iâ€™ll figure out why yesterday, when Iâ€™m a thousand miles from today.
