The doctor said we'll make this as painless as possible just about the time I screamed, I looked at him rather coldly he said there that wasn't as bad as it seemed, I thought that's easy for you to say setting there with your torture tools, I went outside to pay the receptionist and the lobby was packed with fools, I went to the drugstore to get my prescription filled and got a six pack instead, all the way home I couldn't think because of the humming inside my head.
But what does this have to do with the music, what does this have to do with anything, when you've got a good thing don't abuse it, is it true that you cant feel pain.
I went out for a friday night down to the local bar, I saw a pretty girl sitting in the corner she said I could take her I ask her how far, the band was playing something I didn't know but it had a good beat and was easy to dance to, I asked would you like to dance she shrieked yes it was her favorite song.
with anything, when you've got a good thing don't abuse it, is it true that you cant feel pain.
I was thinking as I brushed my teeth and got myself ready for bed, I wonder what it was that made her mad she didn't mind my hands it must have been something I said, after I said I'll make this as painless as possible she took off for the door, I bet I know what it was I bet she had heard that line before.
But what does this have to do with the music, what does this have to do with anything, when you've got a good thing don't abuse it, is it true that you cant feel pain.
