THE NEW DARK AGE

Where were you when the lights went out, we gathered in a chapel of doom under candle light, no one there had any doubt, that we had won the war but lost the fight, now a prophet don't need eyes in the back of his head, the price of an unappreciated luxury is high, and only the already dead, don't realize they must die.
Precision earth and random life, my aching heart my own true wife, the snake has shed; shed it's skin, and it will; will again, it's gonna take all our scientists and sages, to save us from the new dark ages.
Technology is killing us and saving us at the same time, it's hard to tell which it will do first, somehow this reason just don't seem to rhyme, you could live beside the ocean and die of thirst, you know second place aint so bad, depending on how many were in the race, I'm scared the end of this story is gonna be sad, but that's the price of first place.
Precision earth and random life, my aching heart my
ages.
Rumors of the apocalypse wont even turn an ear, everybody's heard don't believe every thing you hear, this world is so brutal and these bones are so brittle, this is what it means to be stuck in the middle, and if you can't live with it you my have to die for it, there comes a time when you just cant ignore it, of all the prophecy thats ever stained this earth, there is none more frightening than the death of birth, but you do what you can just to face what you must, not sure who to despise not sure who to trust, we have to live our lives as though tomorrow is for sure, we have to suffer this disease although we know the cure.

Precision earth and random life, my aching heart my
our scientists and sages, to lead us to the new dark ages.
