You're the least of my problems, I won't give you the time

You're the least of my worries you're not worth your weight

I'll bet everything I have that you'll be there

To have what you call fun - but I don't care

Small town! small minds!

This means you!

Small town! small minds!

You don't have a clue

She says I'm negative I just can't see

It's her negativity depressing me

Maybe I'm anti-American made

I don't think the problem is nationality

It's your point of view

She see's these things through dogma's narrow eyes

You question my integrity, but I can't question yours

I have joy in what I know

But her interpretations bring me sorrow

How can I act like nothing's wrong

And not communicate what's going on
