Maybe if the world was flat you may have a case
And maybe if love didn't exist you may have a case
So what gives you the right to culturally separate race
You don't have a say no
But you ain't gonna change no

Doesn't the blood we bleed flow red
So technically we're not so different
Why can't we co-exist with other religions
If that's what you believe in
Who am I to judge it
I thought we were all the same
Why does prejudice exist
Cause I'm not gonna hide what I am
Or discriminate another sex
While we're looking out the window
I spray it with the windex
Spray the window with the windex

Over and over again people die over race
They got us killing each other to control our fates
You'd think you're fighting for religion
When we live in a world that's about that dollar
That ain't gonna change no
You ain't gotta say so

Doesn't the blood we bleed flow red
So technically we're not so different
Why can't we co-exist with other religions
If that's what you believe in
Who am I to judge it
I thought we were all the same
Why does prejudice exist
Cause I'm not gonna hide what I am
Or discriminate another sex
While we're looking out the window
I spray it with the windex

Why is the world so blind
How can we make it right
How we gonna make it right
