Verse 1:

I know you
You know me
We've been friends
For a while and I can see
That you are faking
I know that you hate it
You like the idea but not so much him
He's good looking, so wealthy
But there's other opportunities
And I can't take it
He treats you like nothing
You say he ain't worth it
Then you turn around

Chorus:

2 seconds later
Your running back to his arms
Do me a favor
Tell me it's more than enough
Tell me the truth
Is he making you happy?
Can you make it through?
Tell me honestly

Verse 2:

Is he that perfect?
Does he make you smile?
Can you show me what
Is making him worth the while
Is he everything?
And his personality
Don't think I'm getting in between
I'm just protecting you
'Cause you say he ain't right then

[Chorus:]

Bridge:

I can't take to see my best friend cry
You apparently love him and I wanna know why

He's a player- he's a double time dater
Honestly he ain't right for you
Right for you

Verse 3:

Ummm, hold up you ain't even met me. Won't give me a chance to work it out. But you sweat me; let's see can you tell me how this is fair huh? I'm real with my lady, I don't wear mascara. Because I don't make up lies, 'cuz I'm down for my girl you're just way up tight. False assumptions, to me that hurts. Don't judge a book by its covers, girl read that first. She deserves more than me. I know that, but unfortunately I meet her standards. So each and every single time you question her happiness, I'm still her answer. Bravo I applaud that you're looking out. But try looking in and you'll see what I'm about. I admit there's a bit to polish me. But trust me Imma nail it, honestly.

[Chorus:]
