honey we are the lucky ones when all is said, and all is done everything will change, but we stay the same winter spring and summer fall the howling wind pounds at our wall together in the sunny days and rain and oh, what you really need to know is that nothing else could make me feel this way oh what im really trying to say is...

don't change
no matter they say please stay the same and dont regret a single day we've come a long way and it's the little things that make my world go round honey although we disagree your love can calm the stormy sea a miracle that happens every day it's the simple things that feed the soul just sit it down and watch it grow I wouldnt want it any other way

there's nothing that could make me go away oh what im really trying to say is...
