They say a picture's worth a thousand words
But a thousand seems like none
When I think about the way you look tonight
To know you is extraordinary
To love you is divine
And all the reasons I could give could blow your mind

Oh all those silly thoughts inside your head
Telling you all the things I've never said
Oh I didn't ever think to lead you on
Let me say one last thing before I'm done

Your smile lights up my living room
Your smile brightens L.A. in June
Your smile could warm the coldest night
Your smile...and I know every little thing will be alright

So listen carefully
And I mean this honestly

Life comes at you like a bullet train
It gives you its number but forgets your name
Love can actually do the same
But with you I think we're gonna make it

Oh all those little thoughts inside your head
Telling you all the things I've never said
Oh I didn't ever think to lead you on
Let me say one last thing before I'm done

Your smile lights up my living room
Your smile brightens L.A. in June
Your smile could warm the coldest night
Your smile...and I know every little thing will be alright

Was it the way that you move?
The way that you move me
Lights in the room
Somehow it all felt better
And even if you make me sick
There's one thing that I won't forget

Your smile lights up my living room
Your smile brightens L.A. in June

Your smile lights up my living room
Your smile brightens L.A. in June
Your smile could warm the coldest night
Your smile...and I know every little thing will be alright

Everything will be alright
Alright
Alright
