

First Signs Of Frost "Atlantic"

We all fall into the same trap of seeking out what we will never find no solutions, no resolve there's no end to this way of life it was down to us but this battle is over already it's too late to save ourselves

We'd wait for hell to freeze over before we'd even try to make a change

Praying for a second chance but holding onto what we had is slipping through our fingertips there's no shread of hope left as a cold rush of fear fills us inside there's nowhere left to turn and no we're just lost for words

and let the ocean swallow us whole if we won't fight to keep the balance retained
