

First Signs Of Frost "Through The Exterior"

Visit "Through The Exterior" on MotoLyrics.com

The mask she wears can only hide what's under the surface and she crafted her disguise so well but I can see through the exterior of her eyes that show a loss of integrity

In this crowded room the faces blend into one another as she stares and wonders if she is the only one who feels so alone right now but you take it all in your stride and these steps you take are the ones to retain your pride

The mask she wears can only hide what's under the surface
and she crafted her disguise so well
but I can see through the exterior
of her eyes that show a loss of integrity Open to attack she's her own worst enemy left with no army to defend her but you still carry on in your ways and at what stage will you raise your hands and surrender?

You owe in to yourself

Now you feel like your life has passed you by one blink and you would miss it all in a second as you take your last breath

Visit First Signs Of Frost page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.