(Pollock/Wright)

God please why was I born to this world

Was it something I did?

Should I do something to repent an old sin

That keeps coming around, I'm not cracking new ground

My mind is simply swimming in this

It's high time for walking away

Me I try to keep me to myself

I take it day by day

But I keep on thinking of everything

I let get in my way, I'm not cracking new ground

I keep thinking of ways to undo

Whatever it was I did

But I keep on falling over a past

That keeps coming around, I'm not cracking new

My mind is simply swimming in this

It's high time for walking away

God please why was I born to this world

Was it something I did?

Should I do something to repent an old sin

My mind is simply swimming in this

It's high time for walking away
