

Great Bloomers "Honey Blanket"

We sacrificed our purity and crafted new identities This tree ain't gonna chop itself and no one else is gonna help Oh, our eyes they glinted so we prayed that it should never go I'm ready now for you to lay this honey blanket down on me

The storm is heading towards our small cabin and I'm tucked in nice and warm

The weight of change it grounds my form the blanket thickens ever more My bedroom ceiling opens wide and lets the rain and snow inside
A spectre gleams with eerie light I'm fastened down try as I might The honey seeps inside my ears and validates my deepest fears
That things still change

And if this means what I think it means then there's no way out so it seems But if you breathe new life into me
Then I know that time cannot dull me

I'm ready now for you to lay this honey blanket down on me
