Why does the early morning mirror
Only reflect in grey
I'll put my mask on I have worn for
One too many days
But when you offered me your hand
I thought, I don't wanna live this way

I couldn't let it stay
My heart was sick of waiting
So I dropped it all right there that day

Dear night I live you everyday
And while the stars, they never change
It's worth a try
I saw a light and I think it's the sun
I could be right, I could be wrong
But it's worth a try

I'm breakin' down the walls I built
Just to keep you out
Makin mistakes and feeling things I've never felt
And I can't get enough
I'll follow you till the ends of the earth
Cause I, I just might believe in love

I'm saying it out loud
You turned my life around
And I dropped it all right there somehow

Dear night I live you everyday
And while the stars, they never change
It's worth a try
I saw a light and I think it's the sun
I could be right, I could be wrong
But it's worth a try

So I dropped it all right there that day
I'm headed who knows where
I can see the world in a million ways from here

Dear night I live you everyday
And I love my memories

But my heart's in another place

I saw a light and I think it's the sun
I could be right, I could be wrong
But it's worth a try

It's worth a try
