You feel it come apart, it's ripping at the seams
Spilling out with everything, your hopes and dreams
Accompanied by misery and all that it brings to tear you away.

You're coming so close to standing bird in hand,
You find it so much harder just to get back up again,
But that's how you manage to pretend it'll be okay

Yeah you made it through in all that you do Even when the black & blue starts to set in

Whoa you can try to push it all aside
But sooner or later life will pass you by.
And in the end when the pain sets in,
We find a way to take it in stride
And we get by, yeah we're getting by we get by, yeah we're getting by

You see the sunrise just around the bend
You've made it through the darkness until the end You've been through hell and back again just to find your way home

And all your scars you wear with pride
You never cover up or keep it all inside Cause that's how you know you're still alive and that you've grown

Yeah you made it through in all that you do
Even when the black & blue has already set in

Yeah you made it through in all that you do
Even when the black & blue already set in

Oh you can try to push it all aside
But sooner or later life will pass you by
And in the end when the pain sets in
we find a way to take it in stride
And we get by yeah we're getting by

Whoa and giving in means there's nothing left

Yeah giving in means there's nothing left to change (x2)

Oh You can try to push it all aside
But sooner or later life will pass you by
And in the end when the pain sets in
We find a way to take it in stride
And we get by yeah we're getting by
We get by yeah we're getting by Getting by Yeah we get by
