Overcoats and undertows my memory's been lost and sold like it was fool's gold you feel like a piece of me all those clocks and hands running all over my body

don't look down
I tell myself right now love's just not allowed
love's just not allowed
love's just not allowed

Cold New York museum floors I keep listening for your old message from before Passing out and passing time living inside poetry lines nothing here is sacred or divine
don't look down
I tell myself right now
love's just not allowed

I tell myself that somehow love will come around

One foot in front of the other
One foot in front of the other
