Go, you move we go, now don't go
You move we don't, now go
Now don't you move we won't go now don't go go I thought the way that she moved, meant the way that she tasted
I could rip these things right through her lips Captivating experience that left me here, with an intoxicating kiss
But tonight, I'm setting all my memories aside

So why don't we trace the footsteps back into our past with the ones we've lost?
Too many bad mistakes were made, no one should have to take the fall for it when it's our life to live

Go, you move we go, now don't go
You move we don't, now go
Now don't you move we won't go now don't go go Found out the way that he moved, found out the way that he tasted
Then he ripped these things right from her lips Never thinking the first time that they met, would be the last she saw of him

Is glamor an issue, while balancing reason?
All we are waiting to destroy The things in life we are made of, a blessing we're tasting
And comes a point to recreate
I could build the expansion, resembling patterns Disguising everything and what we have to relive
And this all for this one dance

So why don't we trace the footsteps back into our past,
with the ones we've lost?
Too many bad mistakes were made, no one should

I am watching over you from the stars Don't be scared, I know exactly where you are Cause there's a piece of me and it's burning in your heart

Even death could never tear us apart
