Never really seen this face before

Still I have pictures of you hanging on my wall

We're like two candles in the dark

More than a million miles apart
And every place that I've called home

Is just one more place from which soon I will roam

And every stranger seems to say

Hey, baby, who can I remind you of today
Make-believer

That is what you say to me

Hey daydreamer

Just don't wake me from my dream
But I dream, do you

How do your waking eyes see you through
And I even dream of you

Maybe one day I will dream a dream for you

Maybe one day I will dream a dream for you
You always told me that I needed the wings to fly

That is why I say goodbye

I will miss you when I'm gone

I wonder, was it meant to end this way all along
Make-believer

Is that what you say to me

Call me daydreamer

Just don't wake me from my dream
