"Hold On"

So you flung your fist high in the air,
But the world remains the same.
And all the demonstrations
Filtered out through graduation,
And the times that were a-changin' never changed.

Freedom takes on new meaning
When you have a family of five.
And peace and revolution
Dissolve in its own solution
When you're fighting for your life just to survive.
'Cause then you've got to

Hold on for what you believe in.
Hold on, don't let in fade.
Still you've got to be strong,
Find yourself a reason.
You never change the world, but just the same,
You've gotta hold on stronger each and every day,
yeah.

When the night creeps in so hollow,
When the silence makes you scream,
When you're so damn scared of failure,
When the world's burned out of saviors,
When you're feeling too vulnerable to dream,
It's then you've got to

Hold on for what you believe in.
Hold on, don't let in fade.
Still you've got to be strong,
Find yourself a reason.
No one change the world, but just the same,
You've gotta hold on to yourself or else you'll fade,
Or else you'll fade,
Or else you'll fade,
Or else you'll fade,
Or else you'll fade....
