alice lays fast asleep in her bed shes curled up under her blanket she moves around and around she screams out loud in the middle of the night thinking that someones gonna come and save her but little does she know shes a million miles away from home she wakes up trying to make sense of her life she sees it all fall apart theres nothing else she can do alice its going to be okay

even when it all goes bad alice please dont give up please dont let go its alright
you are never alone

dont lose grip of reality dont lose faith believe in all of the possibilities reality is that even when life goes bad theres always hope to hold onto

shes curled up under her blanket
