the more that i cry so hard the deeper that i fall the more that i miss you the deeper the pain it never subsides never goes away now i look out the window the sky is gray and the rain is falling down on my window pane

theres so much beauty in love theres so much beauty in all that could be but for me right now i see it all so far away theres so much beauty that is inside of me but i cant see the light that shines for me now feels like im fallin' so hard and i cannot take it not another second i just want to fly so high on wings of eagles cant you see it now that

theres so much beauty in all that we do and all that could be
but i cant see the light that shines for me now

theres no point in pretending to be someone else that im not cause people can see right through me this is not an identity crisis no not this time im just stating a fact yeah im telling you the truth this is my life i live it as i will aint no one gonna tell me otherwise i'll be the one who says what goes and if you dont like it well then thats just tough im gonna be myself thats just how it has to be

theres so much beauty that is inside of me
but i cant see the light that shines for me now

right here right now today and forever this is just the beginning but i know that the end is very near soon the Good Lord will be here but for now im going to keep on singing my song dance till the morning light and when night falls upon me again i will lay my head back down to sleep rest these eyes of mine and refresh myself in the new day thats drawing near

theres so much beauty that is inside of me
