We always think: "We're more mature than that."

"This time won't be like the others."

Then when it's time for us to get back

We always seem to have a setback or two

Why do we always feel compelled to return to this state

That we've been in before many a time?

Are our lives really that much better when we're together?

Is it really worth the pain we put ourselves through?

Or da da da da da da da!

In my heart I'll always hold you as a closest friend

Who I will be always be for up until the end

And I know that this probably sounds cliché

But like so many other things what else can I say

But da da da da da da da!
