Run, i run to fill the deaths i spot ahead The traps i know i've set, for myself, to fall into, and hide
I hide, to save myself from feeling shamed, learning from mistakes
When i know, its me, who's to blame

And darkness ran aground
On the day that lost was found,
i saw you there, i saw you there

I, I could not spill the doubts of lonliness From the pain of emptiness, which you help figure out, which was which Which brings me to the part that's hard to say The part that sounds so lame, joder, we are one, and the same

And darkness ran aground
On the day that lost was found,

Your pulling out the ground, i had to turn around,
i saw you there, i saw you there

If, you need me like an island needs the sea Does that mean i should leave Would you go
Be long gone, with your dreams
We should have fun, asleep at such a speed So many thirsty seats, while im kissing, the palm, of your hand

And darkness ran aground

Likely, you didn't care, with tasels in your hair,
Show me all around, your polishing the town,

I knew right there and then, we never know the end You took me with you in,
we're going to my den
