This lonely crusade has me worked up for days,
I'll take the next train, I'll take the next train Eastbound to Spain, Where the lights, meet the flames that ignite some sort of derelict, some sort of derelict and this place I call home, it doesn't work for me now, it doesn't work for me now

I'll watch them wave goodbye
I'll find my own way, I'll sail far away

The cab pulls up to my door, Dad will hold her head high
My heart just breaks for them, yeah my heart breaks for them
He whispers she'll be alright, I got a spare key tonight,
It opens many doors I'll open many doors

and this place I call home, it doesn't work for me now,
it doesn't work for me now
I'll watch them wave goodbye
I'll find my own way, I'll sail far away, where no one knows my name
I'll find my own way, I'll sail far away, where no one
knows my name
We'll leave our loved ones behind, a different value of time
but I'll come back for you
but I'll come back for you Another sad fucked motel, I'm living my own personal hell
but I'll come back for you
but I'll come back for you
I'll find my own way, I'll sail far away, where no one
knows my name
I'll find my own way, I'll sail far away, where no one
knows my name
I'll find my own way, I'll sail far away, where no one
knows my name
