

Nadia

"Point The Finger"

Visit "Point The Finger" on MotoLyrics.com

Why the long face?
I don't want to hear you out
In the old days
I would let you run your mouth
But it's a different day now
Got someone different here now
I know you feel like I let you down
Oh but you pushed me out

You can try to point the finger at me
But you knew this would happen
I would move on and find someone who would see
I was worth keeping
I was worth keeping

I know that inside
Everything you meant was well
But from the outside
One would think you never felt
Anything towards me
You put yourself before me
But everything still turned out fine, no thanks to you

When a glass breaks it never goes back the same
You can vow eternity but I will never take your name
Everything we ever had best to keep it in the past
Everything we ever felt I don't want to remember back

You can try to point the finger at me
But you knew this would happen
I would move on and find someone who would see
I was worth everything
I was worth everything
Don't you agree?

Visit Nadia page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.