Woke up in the morning with
My broken heart still sound asleep
I knew our star was losing light
Long before we could ever see
All I could hold on to was a fleeting little reverie
All you ever strummed for me was half an empty melody

I was hoping it would change
And turn back this numbing page
But a broken stringed guitar
Can only be only be played for so long

I know one day it will change
I'll look back on this cold day
Fix this broken stringed guitar
And play myself a brand new song

On that day
I watched you walk away
On that day
(We tried so hard)
I watched you walk away
(We tried so long)

On that day
I watched you walk away
On that day
(We tried so hard)
I watched you walk away
(We tried so long)

On that day
I watched you walk away
On that day
(We tried so hard)
I watched you walk away
(We tried so long)

Maybe what we needed was
To turn away our bitter pride

We add fuel to fire with words
That cut like jagged knives
Falling downhill is the only
Way out of an avalanche
Can we make amends
And maybe just pretend like all is well

I was hoping it would change
And turn back this numbing page
But a broken stringed guitar
Can only be only be played for so long

I know one day it will change
I'll look back on this cold day
Fix this broken stringed guitar
And play myself a brand new song
