I'm driving down this cold interstate and I feel so alone
I left everyone back at home
without a simple goodbye
oh how I would of cried if I'd seen your face
staring back at my saying don't go...
I need you so...

You helped me stand when I needed common ground...
You prayed for me even though I know you don't believe..
You stood by me through my darkest hour
never judged me for who I really am...
and I thank you my friend...

I never thought I'd get this far without you hear... holding me up
I'm sorry I never returned your call...
I know I'd just break down and cry
and come back home to the place
where I feel like I don't belong... oh yea...
You helped me stand when I needed common ground...
You prayed for me even though I know you don't
believe..
You stood by me through my darkest hour never
judged me for who I really am...
and I thank you my friend...
You helped me stand when I needed common ground...
You prayed for me even though I know you don't
believe..
You stood by me through my darkest hour never
judged me for who I really am...
and I thank you my friend...

You never judged me for who I am...
and I thank you my friend...
never judged me for who I am...
and I thank you my friend
