You were supposed to be my strength
You call yourself my best friend So how can you pretend you did nothing wrong when obviously you did?
You were supposed to be down, no matter when, what,
who or how
But you threw that out the window, when you hit me with the low blow

You could've picked anybody in the whole wide world to
love
But you choose mine, how could you choose mine?
Out of all the guys, yeah
You could've picked anybody in the whole wide world to
love
But you choose mine, why would you choose mine?

You were supposed to be my aide, the matron on my wedding day
I'm not supposed to never wanna see your face ever again
And now, our kids will never get to play together, why?
Because you messed it all up forever Cause you threw it all out the window, when you hit me
with the low blow

You could've picked anybody in the whole wide world to
love
But you choose mine, why would you choose mine?
Out of all the guys,
You could've picked anybody in the whole wide world to
love
But you choose mine, how could you choose mine?

How could you sleep at night, knowing what you did wasn't right?
But you can't do words with one's or, friendship and a happy home
How can you both hang out with your conscience, eating away Gotta be eating away at you, but I can't feel sorry for you

You could've picked anybody in the whole wide world to
love
But you choose mine, I can't believe you You could've picked anybody in the whole wide world to
love
But you choose mine, I wanna know why you choose I gotta know how you could choose
