

Jetty Rae

"Bones"

Visit "Bones" on MotoLyrics.com

Me and my bones been sitting here for awhile
Here with the clovers, had grown over quite awhile
This valley isn't as green as it used to be
And I'm aching for some water, my bones and me

Can these bones live?
You alone know
Then you give me breath
And skin begins to grow

Me and my bones began to rattle at his mighty song
Been dead for centuries from past battles gone
Been broken and dead long gone, Forgotten
But you heal what's broken, bone to bone to bone

Can these bones live?
You alone know
Then you give me breath
And skin begins to grow

Me and my bones were lonely in my grave
Aching for a comfort, a hand so save
But that's what you do, you raised me from my grave
When hope was lost, hope you save

'Cause these bones are yours
Broken or whole
You give these bones
A home

Now me and bones are not alone
We stand an exceedingly great host
But before we took our first step
Before we took our first breath
To build houses to be a home
We were just a valley of dry bones

Visit Jetty Rae page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

