

Joe Firstman

"Breaking All Ground"

Visit "Breaking All Ground" on MotoLyrics.com

she's swinging from my heartstrings singing that she's climbing up. she drinks bourbon from her daddy's favorite coffee cup.
and she's flying down the highway crying that she won't confess. she'll walk to charlotte like a princess in her mama's wedding dress.
and i watch her break away
more and more every day.
she's breaking all the ground,
breaking all the ground,
breaking all the ground out from underneath she keeps breaking all the ground
breaking all the ground
breaking all the ground out from underneath you gave yourself a day to gather pain, creep around with your cocaine. do you have this figured out or anything but yourself to talk about?
and i watch her break away

more and more, a little more and a little more a little more

each and every day.

she's breaking all the ground,

breaking all the ground,

breaking all the ground out from underneath

she keeps breaking all the ground

breaking all the ground

breaking all the ground out from underneath

no one's ever seen her cry but drips of color from her eyes mean she is weeping.

no one has ever seen her smile but i suppose it fits the style that she's reaping and she's been reaping.

and i watch her break away

more and more every day.

she's breaking all the ground,

breaking all the ground,

breaking all the ground out from underneath

she keeps breaking all the ground

breaking all the ground

breaking all the ground out from underneath

Visit Joe Firstman page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.