Loud Music & Strong Wine

Justin Trevino

The devil lives inside the heart of my woman
And sometimes he takes control of her body and her mind

In the arms of a stranger you may find her
Any place there's loud music and strong wine.

I know I'll never leave cause I need her
And this left over love is all that's mine
I'll build my world around all she can offer
While she's a prisoner of loud music and strong wine.
Sometimes I hate myself for loving such a woman
But she has a way of loving the hate out of my mind
She can't resist temptations forbidden pleasures
Or her passion for loud music and strong wine.

I know I'll never leave cause I need her
And this left over love is all that's mine
I'll build my world around all she can offer
While she's a prisoner of loud music and strong wine
