Everything could end in the blink of an eye
So think of your life, don't drink when you drive
Just think of the times you're in sync with the highs
Just get with the times, decriminalize
Don't commit another crime, go spit another line
Go give another dime to the ones you left behind
If you could then you would try to relive those good times
So do what you can before you say all your goodbyes
To those that you stood by, those who stood by you
Before you try to leave this whole life behind you
When you decide to give in to the hopelessness
Heaven better be just exactly like you hope it is Or maybe life in hell isn't exactly what you know it is Either way, life between the two is the dopest shit
Nothing ever turns out the way that you planned it
But smile while you can, don't take life for granted

Live every moment, every second, every minute
Like, like it's your last (like, like it's your last)
Cause when it's the end, at the closing, at the finish
You can't change the past (can't, can't change the past)
Live every moment, every second, every minute
Like, like it's your last (like, like it's your last)
Cause when it's the end, at the closing, at the finish
You can't change the past (can't, can't change the past)

Cause no one really knows where you go when you die
So I'll tell you what I know, make the most of your life
Cause even if you believe in reincarnation
Eventually you'll reach the realization
That living this life beats thinking bout the next
So love it till the end, just taking what you get
Forget the regrets the make you upset
Cause they represent just half a percent
Of your life's events, of time that you've spent
But time burned away like a burnt cigarette
When you're close to the end it's hard to accept it
Mistakes uncorrected, loved ones neglected
No time to change the choices selected
You saved your repentance for the last second
You take your last breath when you least expect it

Cause life has an entrance but also an exit

Live every moment, every second, every minute
Like, like it's your last (like, like it's your last)
Cause when it's the end, at the closing, at the finish
You can't change the past (can't, can't change the past)
Live every moment, every second, every minute
Like, like it's your last (like, like it's your last)
Cause when it's the end, at the closing, at the finish
You can't change the past (can't, can't change the past)

We go the extra distance to think about existence
We wanna know the truth cause we are persistent
Before you reach the grave it's the answers that you crave
But it all goes away, disappears in an instant
They say life is short but it's sweet for sure
One day you'll wake up to find death at your door
With your mind made up that you wanna live more
Go back and redo the things you did before
Go back to the days when you first learned to crawl
You learned to stand up but forgot you could fall
Back then the end seemed so far away
Carefree, everyday, just making our way
So everyone pause, and do some thinking
Listen to my words and let them, let them sink in
In the very end when your last day arrives
Will you be satisfied with how you lived your life?

Live every moment, every second, every minute
Like, like it's your last (like, like it's your last)
Cause when it's the end, at the closing, at the finish
You can't change the past (can't, can't change the past)
Live every moment, every second, every minute
Like, like it's your last (like, like it's your last)
Cause when it's the end, at the closing, at the finish
You can't change the past (can't, can't change the past)
