Set these guitars on fire baby

Yeah I was making choices.
Every day was a fucking struggle.
Couldn't tell who to blame when everything went straight to hell.

I know, I know this isn't what we had in mind.
But at a certain point you need to realize
Abandoning the ship was for the best.

I could hear the captain screaming:
"Mayday! It's an emergency!
We got a man overboard!
Prevent him from sinking!"

I only had my hope to keep me floating.
But piece by piece it's crumbled down I was getting flooded

I see, I see this world with brand new eyes now.
It's too a beating to realize what the hell I'm doing here.

I will conquer everyone with words of perseverance,
perseverance!
We've seen hell from the inside so we ain't going back.
(0 1 5 6!)

I have carried on this leap of faith.
Even though these times are changing.
We were a constant.
You and I where always a constant!
It shakes my world to see it fall.
You and I where always a constant

The captain is screaming:
"Mayday! It's an emergency!
We got a man overboard!
Prevent him from sinking!"

I only had my hopes to keep me floating

But piece by piece it's crumbled down
And I was getting flooded.

This is an emergency and we're running out of time!
We're counting down the seconds.
Until we all find air to breathe
Until we all find eyes to see
Until the lambs becomes the lions
We were always a constant!
Let's go!
