The Right To Love - Lyrics Gene Lees - Music Lalo Schifrin

My love and I ask little of the world
The right to sigh together in the rain
And walk with heads up in the sun
And share our joy and our pain

And yet they say that we are wrong
That we haven't the right to our love
That this love is shameful to see
And yet we treasure our love

And so we go our solitary ways
Indifferent to the cold unfriendly stares
Indifferent to the whispered talk
We don't care at all

We have all we need
As long as we can be together
We know we've earned the precious right to love

And so we go our solitary ways
Indifferent to the cold unfriendly stares
Indifferent to the whispered talk
We don't care at all

We have all we need
As long as we can be together
We find our consolation in each others eyes
The sweet look of wonder
We know we've earned the precious right to love
