You can have him, I don't want him, he is not worth fighting for
Besides - there are more where he came from.
You can have him, I don't want him, I'm giving him the sack
And he can go right back where he came from.
I could never make him happy, He'd be better off with you,
I am afraid I've never loved him,
All I ever wanted to do was -
Run my fingers through his curly locks
I'd even mend his underwear and darn his socks,
Bring his slippers and remove his shoes,
Wipe his glasses when he's read the news,
Rub his forehead with a gentle touch,
Mornings after when he's had a little too much,
Kiss him gently when he cuddles me,
And give him babies - one for every year.
So you see - you can have him, I don't want him - I don't want him
You can have him - for he's not - the man for me.

I would look a trifle silly taking him away from you,
That was never my intention.
All I ever wanted to do was -
Close the window while he soundly slept,
And then I'd raid the icebox where the food is kept.
And I fix a breakfast that would please him most -
Ham and eggs and coffee
And he's fond of apple butter on toast.
I'd wake him gently with a breakfast tray,
After breakfast I'd clear the things away Then I'd get the newspapers and when they've been read,
We would spend the balance of the day in bed.
So you see you can have him, I don't want -
If you can get him, you can have him
For he's not - No, he's not the man for me.
