in the evening light
she ain't more than a day old the circle's opened and closed in the calm
a guide sits by her bedside singin this place is alright welcome to your new noisy life welcome to the water and the sweetness of night

the stars turn coolly
defying your mind
arrows arch away
right now one time

years that fly by so fast are flowers in their garden grass burst from his questions even at dawn
as the sun climbs from its dwelling where to go
i think that he knows

welcome to your new bright life welcome to the air
and the will of daylight
the days turn coolly

needs walk away
right now one time
