(Linda Lewis)

woke up from a dream, I'm dying took a look at my horoscope it said there's still hope as long as the wet still drying who hears the last one that you meet Is it whether smile or frown you weaken what is the first thing that you say to start the day the right way shook out the tangles at my head got into my dressing gown I took a look around to make sure I was truly alright

Is it whether smile or frown that you weaken
the right way, hey, the right way
alright

I would gladly give you my hand Give me yours and we will understand
We will understand
We will understand
stand, stand, stand, stand, stand stand, stand understand, nderstand stand, understand, stand alright
