Phrased oh so beautifully, this hidden apathy inside, this sudden expectation, stranded in these thoughts that haunt me.

So now I'm waiting here with open arms and open ears, to finally figure out what lies beneath, what lies beneath these years.

All this time I've been without you and all this time I never knew

Waking up to see that I have given you everything now you know I need this place to get away

Take time take time you want to sing it for me
hope you go

Step back away from me I gave it all I gave everything so now I believe you you could never see you could never see it through

For you, I need someone to step back and see, I never knew I need I need one thing more cause right now this day I'm out the door All this time I've been without you
and all this time I never knew

now you know I need this place to get away

Take time take time
hope you go

It's useless, it's useless can you just leave me with all that you could be so now all that you need is a home

Waking up to see that I have given you everything
now you know I need this place to get away

Take time take time
hope you go,
you go.

All this time I've been without you and all this time you never knew
