It's all smiles at the club and the party here
And everybody's smiling the same
And we kiss those cheeks and we shake those hands
We watch them play their game
With a brew in your hand and a reggae band
You think we'd feel okay
But there's an emptiness there I can't explain
And it's growin' every day
Can see kings bein' born and heroes topple
Through the view of the bottom of a cold beer bottle
For some dumb reason you don't wanna go home
You cling to the crew, it's better than being alone

You feel okay
Better than yesterday

I welcome you with open arms, beating heart and sweaty palms
I know something's creepin' through your mind
You crack a smile but that is all
Don't hold my hand, return my call
If there's someone else just let me know
I've been down
Come right around
I got no reason to bleed
Waiting for you, waiting for me
To do the things you don't have guts to do

We feel okay
Better than yesterday
But okay's not good
Don't feel like we should

You feel okay
Better than yesterday
But okay's not good
Woah, we don't feel like we should
