So It's been three years, since I've opened up my ears just taking me in everything I see.

And in around three weeks
I'll be packing all I need, just taking off in a good seat
to arrive in the city,
to arrive in the city.

Welcome to my birthday party,
welcome to my dying day.
Everyone's got a backpack full of problems,
but everyone's got a pocket full of change.
Of change, Of change.
And it's sounds so strange, but I've been counting everyday like it's one more day I don't have to change my ways.

And I stopped writing poetry, and started up a diary
so you could see exactly what I mean, can you see exactly what I mean.

Welcome to my birthday party,
welcome to my dying day.
Everyone's got a backpack full of problems
but everyone's got a pocket full of change.
