I came out here to speak today
Sometimes it feels just like yesterday
I recall the lipstick on your lips
I remember the last time that we kissed
No it's not too easy bein' alone
I can't find a place to call my own
I've been so confused since you've been gone
What'd I do to deserve this, where did I go wrong?

So tell me how's the weather in heaven,
'Cause out here it's been rainin' all week,
Tell me what to do 'cause I feel like half the man I could be
If I'm breakin' through, I'm breakin' free
I just need the strength to carry me
But without you here it's makin' me believe
If I'm losin' you I'm losin' me

I've been roamin' around these empty streets
All these visions of you and me that I see
I can hear your voice inside my head
While I'm layin' alone in this empty bed
I can hear the rain comin' from the porch
Everyday I lose myself just a little more
You can name the price I'll find a way to pay
If we could turn back the clocks and just take back that day

So tell me how's the weather in heaven,
'Cause out here it's been rainin' all week,
Tell me what to do 'cause I feel like half the man I could
If I'm breakin' through, I'm breakin' free
I just need the strength to carry me
But without you here it's makin' me believe
If I'm losin' you I'm losin' me

And I'm runnin' down that old dirt road
The only one we've ever known
There's a piece of you inside of me
That makes me who I want to be

So tell me how's the weather in heaven,
'Cause out here it's been rainin' all week,
Tell me what to do 'cause I feel like half the man I could
be
If I'm breakin' through, I'm breakin' free
I just need the strength to carry me
But without you here it's makin' me believe
If I'm losin' you I'm losin' me
