He takes his darlin' with a tender hand.
Gives her a reason to be proud of her man.
He's just a fool for love.
She's a fool to love again.

Her love has no condition. It has no pride.
She knows how he's feelin. She keeps him satisfied.
She's just a fool for love,
And he's a fool to love again.

But who's the fool who really knows how to treat his woman,
and who's the fool who can care about her man.
If he's a fool then the fool will never never love again.
So he takes his darlin' with a tender hand.
And she knows how he's feelin. She's proud of her man.
He's just a fool for love
She's a fool to love again

So to the fool who really knows how to treat his woman,
And to the fool who can care about her man.
Just be the fool that will never,
never never love again
