Warm inside
Does anyone really recall what it's like?
You and I, we go too far
We're running wild with our pride

Is it so easy for you to pretend
That all of this is a means to some end?
Is anyone home?
Have we been away for too long?

You feel your mind shrink
Till you can't breathe
And you can't think
The world, as it ends
Becomes so small

That there is no room for people there at all
I miss all of my friends
It's never easy for me to pretend
That all of this is a means to some end
Is anyone home?
