

The Cardigans

"Last Song"

Visit "Last Song" on MotoLyrics.com

"Last Song"

the night she died in the rented room as the whole town was sleeping she held her breath like a star in bloom could burn down tomorrow the summer breeze was caressing me as I walked through the market the golden light of a friend beside had died out for good now nothing can amaze me as everything's behind me no, nothing else can please me since all I had has been set free the night before in the dining room I recall it now she said "I fear for you my friend cause I'll soon be leaving" the autumn comes just like other years but I won't see the signs the sun above is sowing magic seeds but it wants someone back...

Visit The Cardigans page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.