"At The Wake"

So far from me, he stands
A man known as disease
He's shaking all the hands of the people he meets
And you now you just don't see me anymore
Well, I've been losing everything
You just don't see me anymore
I'll say goodbye

Since you left, she's a mess
She regrets all the things that she could've said
But we fall asleep, never think of anything
We wake to the sound of a phone as it hits the ground
And now you just don't seem me anymore
Well, I've been losing everything
You just don't see me anymore
I'll say goodbye

And, oh at the wake, at the wake
I will turn to see a face
Just a face, just a face
So surrounded by a name
What a name, wha a name
And we never want to change
What you gave, what you gave
Never wanna let go

So surround me
I need anything and
You're everything
I want to live like I did
Before all this hit
To sleep in your arms
To think we'll never fall apart
And oh

You know it's, you know it's such a drag
To live your life for a heart attack
To never get a second chance
To say goodbye
To say goodbye

I'll never get to try
You just don't see me anymore
I've been losing everything
I'll say goodbye
