Heavy, heavy are these things
We're born to do, and born to be Holding on with all we've got
Makes it hard to let you go
I don't want to let you go

Because this heart, this heart
This broken heart is left
Full of doubt, and shattered all around
These Arms, these arms
Picking up the pieces once again
Yeah, I'm looking for the reason once again

It's not the the way that it should be
These games we play are dangerous
This world will bring you to your knees
The deepest cuts, they never bleed

You know, this heart, this heart
Full of doubt, and shattered all around
And these arms, these arms
Picking up the pieces once again
Yeah, I'm looking for the reason once again

But, I know that there's a reason, yeah I know there's a reason
Lord I know that there's a reason for it all
But, I know that there's a reason, yeah I know there's a reason
Lord I know that there's a reason for it all

Because this heart, this heart
Full of doubt, and shattered all around
But, in your arms, your arms, I'm strong again
And now I finally see the reason for it all
Yeah, I finally see the reason for it all
